Black 13 Tattoo Parlor brings cutting-edge custom tattooing to Nashville

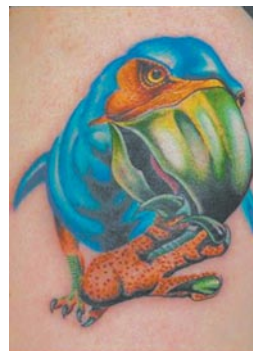

Black 13 Tattoo Parlor Suite 218 750.3741 www.black13tattoo.com

A tattoo shop that aims to break preconceived notions about tattooing is one of Cummins Station's newest community members. Black 13 Tattoo Parlor is the creation of local Nashville musician Doy Gardner and tattoo artist Josh Woods.

A clean, upscale environment at a convenient location is just the beginning; Black 13's real draw is the artistry of Woods and fellow artist Lenny Renken. Woods, who's in high demand from worldwide clientele, specializes in colorful, large-format tattoos that look like they've been painted on the skin. Renken is known for precise details and lifelike color.

Guest artists will fill the shop's other two chairs, Gardner said.

Black 13 Tattoo Parlor will celebrate its grand opening Aug. 2 with a party featuring free giveaways, live music and other performances. For party details and construction updates, visit black13tattoo.com.

Time for a 'doggone' good lunch

Dixie Dogs 456.8862

Hotdogs and hot weather are a natural combination and Cummins Station community members can conveniently get their fill this summer with Dixie Dogs, a new hotdog stand in the back west-side courtyard.

"We have Hebrew National hotdogs, quarter-pound all-beef hotdogs and bratwurst," said Michelle Williams, who owns the stand with her husband, Steve, an employee of Air Doctors (Suite 432). "We also have toppings — kraut, chopped tomatoes, onion, relish, jalapenos and pickle spears — and we sell drinks and chips."

Dixie Dogs is open from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Monday through Friday and will be at Cummins Station through the summer, and possibly longer, depending on weather, Williams said.

Grab a 'dog and a table in the courtyard for your fun summer lunch.
